

Data Protection Training

This online eLearning course is a perfect solution for any charitable organisation looking for comprehensive data protection training at a fantastic price point.

This certified course contains an all-encompassing final test with detailed reporting to help data controllers comply with their GDPR accountability obligations.

COURSE OVERVIEW

This Level One certified course is designed to create a strong foundation of data protection understanding for individuals working in the third sector.

The knowledge that individuals attain through the completion of this course will not only help your charitable organisation minimise data risks, but also help to demonstrate compliance with the GDPR to the data protection regulator.

FORMAT AND CERTIFICATION

This course will take learners approximately an hour to complete, delivered online through pre-recorded animated video content.

After each topic, there is a mini-quiz, followed by a twenty question multiple-choice exam at the end of the session which awards successful users a level one certification, which is certified by Hand in Hand Professionals.

AUDIENCE

This course is suitable for all staff within your charitable organisation who are exposed to personal data.

For staff who have more data protection responsibilities, or for those who show a keen interest, our Level Two course should be considered to help your organisation increase its awareness of your charity's data risks.

COURSE CONTENT

This course covers a variety of different areas that are directly relevant to the legal implications of fundraising, including:

- A post-Brexit update (how the legislation will change now that the UK has left the European Union)
- The legislation governing data protection
- An introduction to personal data and its various forms
- Analysing lawful reasons for processing personal data, e.g. Consent
- The Principles guiding data protection legislation
- Rights of individuals
- Data security
- Data breaches
